

ST514: RECONCILIATION AND THE HEALING OF PERSONS (4-units).

Ray S. Anderson, Senior Professor of Theology and Ministry

DESCRIPTION:

In this course we will consider the doctrine of the Incarnation, the person of Jesus Christ as the basis for reconciliation of persons to God, the doctrines of Justification and Sanctification, as well as the doctrine of the Atonement. A unit on healing and the atonement will look closely at the issues of forgiveness of sin, physical healing, and the relationship of healing to God's ministry of reconciliation through the church.

RELEVANCE FOR MINISTRY: The course objectives are:

- To enable students to develop a core paradigm for divine reconciliation centered on the person and work of Christ;
- To prepare students for a more effective ministry of reconciliation in and through the church through a praxis of ministry which releases Christ's transforming power as an integrative and wholistic movement of faith. The course includes an emphasis on a ministry of healing for those preparing to be clinical therapists and/or Christian counselors. Pastoral strategies as well as missiological implications of a ministry of reconciliation are considered.

COURSE FORMAT:

The class will be conducted on the Internet using a 10-week lesson program aligned with Fuller's academic calendar.
